

Would you like to know how we work with Barkibu?

We recommend playing the song "Valsinha" by Francisco Mignone and listening to it in the background while reading this story. It will create a perfect ambience. At Lean Mind we love to live experiences to the fullest.

An innovative start-up with solutions

Barkibu is a Galician technology company that loves animals (pet tech), which wants to collaborate on improving the quality of life of animals and provide first-hand and easily accessible professional veterinary information.

In addition to its health portal with AI-based veterinary care, Barkibu is constantly launching new services such as its revolutionary health insurance for animals.

It is an established start-up that is continuously innovating, validating new products and services in the market. Its technological stack is very diverse.

An innovative start-up with solutions

Its fast-paced development requires versatile developers who can quickly get to grips with any technology and make the most of it. People willing to rotate and experiment while meeting high quality standards.

Barkibu's latest round of investment was 4.7 million euros. The COVID-19 pandemic has increased the demand for animal health services, the pet tech sector is booming.

Pablo Pazos and Carlos Blé knew each other previously, from a course taught by Carlos almost a decade before this collaboration. We have been working together since 2019.

The collaboration

We started the collaboration by adding two people from Lean Mind to a Barkibu team. Shortly after that we went up to five, working in different teams, from mobile apps to APIs, web and virtual assistant. The range of technologies is very wide: Dart+Flutter, Ruby+Rails, Kotlin+Spring Boot, AngularDart, React, and Python, among others.

Barkibu needs people capable of learning quickly, with a good base, without attachment to code or language, and with a desire to share and innovate. People who propose technological ideas that boost business and who are, of course, animal lovers.

Our job is to help Barkibu to build muscle so that it can meet market deadlines promptly. They must also be able to communicate in English to work on the company's international projects.

The collaboration

Our main input is good technical practices as well as a culture of learning, teamwork and remote working.

We are still immersed in this long-term collaboration that will last as long as Barkibu's ambitious expansion lasts, while they seek to improve the welfare of our beloved furry friends.

Impact and purpose

At Lean Mind we are very happy to work for Barkibu, mainly because their mission is totally aligned with ours; to build a better future, in their case, giving back to animals.

We are passionate about contributing to raising awareness of respect for other beings. Barkibu is also committed to personal development and, as a result, we are growing together.

Our culture of teamwork and continuous improvement is a good source of inspiration for Barkibu.

The three magic words

1. MUTUAL SUPPORT

Our growth has a lot to do with Barkibu's commitment to Lean Mind when we were starting out. We are deeply grateful and for that we support and will continue to support Barkibu in any way we can.

2. PURPOSE

We work for a better world and this is what unites us and gives us the energy to achieve the management's objectives. The objectives of both companies are met by working together.

3. COMMITMENT

Lean Mind's commitment is to deliver our best version regardless of whether we have to change language, platform or project. We will give our all in any case. Furthermore, Barkibu's commitment to Lean Mind is key; it gives us the opportunity to continue to grow in every way. Even in times of great uncertainty, Barkibu has chosen to continue moving forward with Lean Mind.

We design software to create a better world, empowering our team and clients.
